TEARFUL WIFE TELLS OF EVENTS AT THE SINGHS.

Declares Husband's Infatuation for the Wife of Sigmund Lubin's Son-in-Law Became So Mad that She Had to Leave Him to Maintain Her Self-respect.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES) PHILADELPHIA. Oct. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fight which Ferdinand Singhi, son-in-law of Sigmund Lubin, the millionaire moving-picture magnate, has carried on for possession of his 4-year-old son, now in the custody of his wife, Edith Singhi, this city, had another airing in court today.

Judge Starnes ruled that the evidence against Mrs. Singhi had been of an indefinite character and not enough to warrant the writ asked by her husband. She was permitted to retain possession of the child, but the court ruled that Singhi should be permitted to have the companionship of his son for two periods of five weeks each during every year.

Suit for divorce instituted by Mrs. Singhi last May is still pending. Mrs. Alice Sterling Flemming, pretty and well known, the wife of a bond broker, describes a "kitchen party" given by Mrs. Singhi, which her husband attended. Mrs. Flemming, who until a few months ago lived with her husband at No. 3598 Chestnut street, swore Mrs. Singhi had been friendly with her husband and that in consequence she and Flemming were no longer living together. The young wife said she and her husband had separated under the entrance of Mrs. Singhi in their home life. She told of playing the detective after her suspicions were aroused.

Later on Flemming was a frequent visitor at Mrs. Singhi's home, she said. They had been much together in Atlantic City. Flemming driving Mrs. Singhi's auto. On one occasion, when she came across Flemming and Mrs. Singhi on the beach last summer, Mrs. Flemming swore her husband buried his face in the sand and Mrs. Singhi lifted her head and laughed at him.

Mrs. Flemming swore that in consequence of all this she separated from her husband last May and that long after that he continued to be a regular visitor at the Singhi home.

Singhi was formerly a pianist in an Eighth-street vaudeville theater, where he met Miss Lubin to whom he was married about six years ago. A year ago he was drawing $6,000 annually as manager of the Lubin moving-picture studios here. After frequent family quarrels, Singhi suddenly disappeared last October and took his son with him. Sigmund Lubin, the aged inventor and grandfather of the boy, figured strikingly in the search that followed. He told the police repeatedly that he was willing to give up all he owned to gain the possession and companionship of the grandchild.

TEAM FAILS ON TEAM RACE.

Rupert Pachet, a racing driver, was perhaps fatally injured when he was struck by a team of horses while running a race of about 2000 pounds, for the receiving line, in the Bronx, N. Y., on Saturday. He was given temporary treatment. Pachet was removed to the Bronx Hospital, where he died on Sunday morning. The team ran into the side of a building in the Bronx, and the horses were killed. The horses were owned by a man named John L. Lee, who was killed in the accident.

Uncle of Henry Clews Declined to Pay Him More Than Fifteen Dollars Weekly.

(By Special Dispatch) YONKERS (N. Y.) Oct. 23.—[Special Dispatch.] Talking to the students of the commercial department of Yonkers High School today, Henry Clews, the New York financier, told them that John D. Rockefeller had offered him $15,000 weekly, and when he tried to get a raise, he was informed that his services were not worth any more than that.

Clews said that the story of the incident was "brand new," and when Rockefeller first approached him, he was employed by Clews' uncle, Isaac N. Ewing, in Cleveland. O. Young Rockefeller thought he was not getting ahead fast enough and asked for better pay. Clews promptly refused and told him $15 was all he was worth.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Archie Jordan, 15 years old, a cripple, attempted suicide this morning in his room at No. 211 Eddy street by turning on the gas. He was hurried to the Central Emergency Hospital and pronounced out of danger.

Jordan lost his leg in a street accident two years ago. His father was appointed guardian with a surety company going on his bonds.

Some time later the father fled with the money. He compromised with the police, who collected $200, and Attorney George C. Evans was appointed guardian. Evan sent Jordan to a business school, but the boy did not prove to be an apt pupil. He left the school.

Charges of Embarrassment and Child Desecration Against Vanished Oroville Ticket Agent.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES:
OROVILLE (Cal.) Oct. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The police are now seeking Claude L. Williams until a month ago ticket agent in the local office of the Western Pacific Railroad on the command of his child Jeannette, 10, and his companion at Williams was discharged by the company four weeks ago, on the charge of being intoxicated while on duty, and the next day left Orovile for an unknown destination. His wife and two children are now cared for at the home of Mrs. Williams's sister in this city.

Since Williams left the employ of the railroad company, the auditor of the Western Pacific has checked his accounts and reports that there was a shortage of over $300 alleged to have been covered up by Williams.

Williams's arrest upon a charge of felony embusserment was issued in the local justice court this afternoon.

His wife refuses to believe her husband is innocent of deserting her, although she says she has had no information or letter as to his present whereabouts from him. She believes that he has gone elsewhere to earn a living.

It is believed that it is his intention to send for her and their two children as soon as he has made enough money to support them.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES:
NAPA (Cal.) Oct. 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The will of the late H. P. Nowell, a singular individual, was filed in the Superior Court for probate in the afternoon by Mrs. Eugene Gridley. The will is written on both sides of a page from an ordinary pocket memorandum book, in Nowell's own handwriting, dated October 18, 1912. It had no witness.

Nowell died last Friday, aged 62 years. In the will he left all his possessions to "Mrs. Gridley," giving no initials, but the writer is believed to refer to Mrs. Eugene Gridley, at whose residence he had lived for nine months prior to his death. He expects that she will make no bequest to his wife, who is living apart from him in Lynn, Mass.

TERRIFIC ONSLAUGHTS.

After each terrific onslaught, the huge freighter rose valiantly only to slip into another mastodon and to struggle once more through the deluge.

With Capt. Clarkson, ship's officers feared then occurred. A sea larger than any which had before assailed the steamer careened over the port bow, and when the vessel suddenly came up out of the depths she was tilted far to port. The force of the water had wrenches the deck lashings loose and the deckload had shifted far to starboard, threatening to send the strong steel masts by those which bent the bridge railing.

Waist deep in water, which came in a deluge down the ventilators and through the shattered skylights Chief Engineer W. H. Huddel and his "black angels" stuck to their posts. The furnaces were almost awash, and the lights below having been extinguished the engineers and firemen worked by the intermittent glow of the furnace fires.

For twenty-six hours, the steamer struggled against the elements, every member of her crew fighting for the life he knew was at stake. For another twenty-four hours on last Sunday the vessel was mired up to the waterline and when Capt. Clarkson took his position he found that he had made no progress, but that he had been driven back twenty-one miles.

On Monday morning the tide abated and the ship, although still swaying over the listed steamer, moderated. Capt. Clarkson decided that it would be folly to continue the voyage and shaped a course for the Golden Gate, which the steamer reached with the steamer still washing over the deckload.

COTTON CASE IS WOBBLING.

Patten and Friends Have Better of Argument.

Ten-million-dollar Deal Is Subject of Inquiry.

One Year More to Finish the Panama Canal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON. Oct. 22.—Administration of defense in the indictment of James Patten, Eugene Scales, Frank B. Hayes and William F. Brown of charges of conspiracy to fix a $10,000,000 corner on cotton in 1910 in the New York Cotton Exchange in violation of the anti-trust law, were made in the Supreme Court today by Solicitor-General Bullitt for the government.

The occasion was the second argument over the indictment, the court not being willing to decide last spring the correctness of the decision of the New York Federal Court in quashing several vital counts.

The new Solicitor-General had barely stated to the court that the question in the case was the decision of the Supreme Court that the Sherman anti-trust law did not prohibit the "cornering of a corner" before Chief Justice White suggested that he would be pleased to have the government at some time define just what it meant by a "corner."

DEFINITION OF A CORNER.

Mr. Bullitt's argument was a combination among dealers in a commodity or outside capitalists, for the purpose of buying up the greater portion of the commodity and holding it back from sale until the demand so far outran the limited supply as to advance the price abnormally.

"Now, I want you to show how the indictment fits that definition," said the Chief Justice.

The late Solicitor-General to announced that he abandoned the third count of the indictment because the lower court found there was no charge in that the defendants went to hold back the cotton market, and consequently no corner was charged.

"Getting right down to 'brass tacks,'" declared Mr. Bullitt, "I frankly admit that the other count, the second, one defined. There is no exact statement in it that the combination was created to withhold the cotton from the market the cotton bought." The Solicitor-General said in dealing with this defect the government advised the government. On the other hand, the lower court construed the count to charge the running of a corner and the Supreme Court could do nothing but accept that interpretation.

Mr. Bullitt admitted that if neither of these arguments was acceptable, the government had no case.

WORK AT PANAMA.

One More Year Required to Finish Construction and Six Months for Organization.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES. Oct. 22.—[Special Dispatch.] Press reports from Panama to the effect that the canal will be opened for traffic on October 22, 1913, are accredited by officials of the Isthmian Canal Commission headquarters here.

Major C. C. Boggs, chief of office, declined to say if the reports were probably without any official foundation, although, as already predicted, it is expected that the construction work will be completed by next fall if all unfavorable difficulties do not arise. He said the present plan is not to open the canal for commercial purposes until the spring of 1914.

"It is reasonable to assume that the canal will be opened in the fall, but we have not received the slightest intimation that it will be opened for traffic before March or April in 1914, which will be about six months after completion according to estimates," said Maj. Boggs.

He is planned to organize thoroughly the operating force before permitting any vessel to pass through the canal.

Official of War Department indicated they were making every plan to open the canal a year from today. They said many difficulties may arise before then, but that it is estimated that the construction work will have been completed late in the summer or in the fall.

Reorganization of Atlantic Fruit Company to Be Effective This Week Despite President's Absence.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

BOSTON. Oct. 22.—[Special Dispatch.] The reorganization of the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, into the United Fruit Company, into a new company to be known as the Atlantic Fruit company, will be effected at a special meeting, October 25.

The old company has an authorized capital of $15,000,000, of which nearly $8,000,000 has been issued. The stockholders' amount to $24,657,700 and bondholders will be asked to exchange these for 7 per cent cumulative non-voting preferred stock with a bonus of 25 per cent. Debentures to the amount of $5,000,000 will be issued and these will be underwritten by responsible bankers.

The Hamburg-American Steamship Line is holder of the present bonds, and is understood to be satisfied with the reorganization plan.

Joseph Dio Gorgio, president of the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, will be here for London. Whether his sudden departure is in connection with the reorganization is not stated but the meeting called for Friday will be held despite his absence.

Writers and Players Indulge in Remarkable Demonstration in Honor of World's Greatest Actress. Bernhard Declares the Event Was "Sweetest Moment of Her Life."

BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

LONDON. Oct. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "This is the sweetest moment of my life," said Mme. Sarah Bernhardt this evening when receiving the homage of her British admirers in the form of a birthday address. The actress' action was born on this day in 1844. This evening's function was a great event and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. Lord Beauchamp presided, Paul Cambon, the French Ambassador, attended, and Sir Squire Bancroft, Lady Bancroft (Marie Elfrida), Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and numerous other persons prominent in the theatrical and literary worlds shared in the function.

Leopold G. Rothchild, surveyor of customs at Indianapolis, a member of the Executive Committee of the Indiana Republican State Committee in the 1904 campaign, said he believed the Sherman law short of that sum, I understand these suits were to be dismissed.

"Do you know that is so?"

"No, I don't believe that is so," replied Mr. Whitcomb.

Mr. Whitcomb explained that Perseverance and Beverage were to get together when Bernhardt was a guest at a hotel and Perkins an insurance agent in Indianapolis. This friendship, he said, was the cause of the Perkins' conduct.

The Sherman law had been passed.

Before commencement of these suits in November 25, 1890, and the one against the Southern Pacific Railroad December 1, 1890, and that he had been for cancellation of the lease to the Southern Pacific Company and contract with the Western Union Telegraph Company and to compel the railroad companies to operate as a group in view of their monopoly of the telegraph lines of the country and apparently did not involve the antitrust law at all, as did the case about which I testified.

The Sherman law had been passed.

Before commencement of these suits in November of the same year. But whatever were the grounds of the suit, apparently they had never been prosecuted and had lain dormant for nine years before being finally dismissed.

BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES;

COPENHAGEN. Oct. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the Chamber today a sensation was caused when a Socialist member, Samuelson, declared himself a Mormon and made a lengthy defense of Mormonism. The Mormons, he said, are a "nice people, who acted honestly." He then asked the government if it were true that several countries exist between the Scandinavian countries and the powers against Mormonism.

M. Appel, Minister of Worship and Education, in replying, denied that such a statement existed, but added that he sympathized with the efforts of the clergy and other persons against Mormonism because it induces girls to leave home, eventually driving many families to despair.

BEVERIDGE-PERKINS LETTER.

After the committee had adjourned for the day, Frank J. Hogan, representing the Progressive party of Washington, gave our letter which he said had been telephoned him from the New York office of Mr. Perkins, and which pertained to the letter of Senator Beveridge returning the money sent him by Perkins. The letter names no amount. It read as follows:

"ALBERT."

This letter, Mr. Hogan said, would be presented to the committee for record. Mr. Perkins, when he was on the stand, was asked to furnish the committee with a copy of the letter and Senator Beveridge, and he agreed to do so.

POMERENE NOT SATISFIED.

Mr. Pomerene desires to pursue the Beveridge matter further, and telegrams have been sent to several witnesses asking when they can appear.

Senator Beveridge has wired he cannot reach Washington before Saturday.

Further action of the committee will depend entirely upon the immediate availability of the witness.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Louis Gagmore, who turned his talents as an artist into the painting of $10
counterfeit government notes today was sentenced to serve one year in the United States Prison at Ft.
Leavenworth, Kan., after he had admitted his guilt. He will start for prison at once.

Gagmore, said the court he had pointed the notes so that he could support his wife and child when he found he could not sell his paintings.
The Federal authorities declared the notes were as well controlled it had been difficult to dis-

Governor Refuses to Interfere in Case of Man Charged with Stealing $100,000.

CHARLESBURG (Pa.), Oct. 23.—
Gov. Tenner today decided—after a hearing—let the law take its course in the matter of the prosecution of Walter H. Shourds of Philadelphia, charged with stealing $1, 000,000 of securities and cash in each from the Merchants Union Trust Company of Philadelphia.
The securities and the money were returned and the interested parties having received their property back had taken no further steps. The law, however, requires prosecution of persons committing such offense.

Shourds was superintendent of the safe deposit vaults of the company and the country and was indicted by a Federal grand jury. He was later found and made restitution.

DALLAS (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Two Clyde youths told an unusual story in Children's Court here today.
The boys, Joe Zimba, and Bruno Swentzel, aged 15, were arrested
several days ago in Mesquite, Tex., where, mounted on horses and armed with revolvers, they were giving their best exhibition of shooting up a small town. In court today they said they had started their career last summer with $800,000, given them by the mother of "Elmer McMillan."
They said they took a small safe from the store and rifled it in a firewood yard.

Prison Term at Home.

BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—An unusual conviction was registered on the books of the District Attorney's office today.
The papers as filed show that Joseph Zischka, a Hungarian, has been convicted in Vienna and sentenced to two years' imprisonment for a robbery they committed in New York last year. The man was alleged to have netted away with diamonds worth $10, 000.

Zischka left the country before he could be apprehended but was arrested in Vienna. According to the Austro-Hungarian laws, a subject of that empire can not be extradited to another country. So the District Attorney's office prepared affidavits and turned them over to the Austro-Hungarian Consul.

Indictments against six persons on charge of riotous conspiracy were returned by the grand jury today.

The names of those indicted were not made public, but Prosecutor Don
J. Young said today all were men.
One was married. The penalty for the crime is two to ten years' imprisonment or fine of $100 or both. Miss Laverne, who left town after the attack, is in seclusion in Cleveland.

The girl was caught on the street at night. The captors dragged her between two buildings and stood her on her head, then beat her to paint upon her. The grand jury reports that the outrage was not perpetrated by women as reported.

son of Robert O. Fowler, found a Bull Moose pin belonging to his father he carried it about for a time, and then, in child-like fashion, put it into his mouth. Moving it from side to side with his tongue, he swallowed it real hard and the Bull Moose pin was carried down his throat.

Mr. Fowler, when he learned what had become of his son, called a physician.
Although the latter is a Taft man, he said he did not think an operation would

TWO ISSUES PARAMOUNT.

Vice-President Addresses the American People.

Experience, Not Experiment, Need of Day.

Greatest National Crisis Since the Civil War.

A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Vice-President James S. Sherman contributed a prepared address tonight to the Republican campaign in which he dwelt upon two issues before the nation: constitutional liberty and industrial opportunity.

This statement by Mr. Sherman, which is addressed to the American people, is practically his only contribution to the election work of his party. The President's health has made it impossible for him to take an active part in the campaign. The statement in part follows:

"There has been a matter of keen regret that I have not been able to play an active part in the present campaign. The restraint has been more irksome as I have realized that we are moving through dangerous waters in which we have not experienced since the Civil War. It is indeed to be only an onlooker at this time and I am almost inclined to disobey the doctor's orders, as one who has private interests which I must consider. But I must continue to do my best for which I must contribute.

SPRIT OF UNREST.

"There are two great issues in this election which stand out alone. One, constitutional liberty—the other industrial opportunity. I realize fully the spirit of unrest that has been created during the last few years among the working classes.

"It appears most thoroughly and most heartily in the desire for social betterment. I am full sympathy with every well-meant effort to elevate still further the standard of living, to alleviate injustice and inequities existing in our social and industrial life. But I ask in all seriousness if any evils that have crept into our national economy can be eliminated by changing the Constitution, blighting the courts or increasing the power of the mob? Happily I see this threatening danger which seems to menace our institutions as less aversive.

FREE TRADE MENACE.

"We have a great menace remains. We are in the present social situation by tearing down existing industrial conditions and creating opportunity for individual national progress.

"The Democratic platform of 1912, like the Democratic platform of 1908, was unconstitutional in its condition and collecting of taxes except for revenue. The Democratic candidate, Mr. Wilson, has declared that he would repeal all protective duties. The present Democratic platform of Representatives has no basis on revenue. In favor of lowest import rates. So we may as

GIRL KISSES GOV. WILSON AND CALLS IT POLITICS

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Miss Mae McEllen

In the stenographer employed at the National Democratic headquarters in New York, who kissed Gov. Wilson in the Astor Hotel on October 12. Since her outburst of political enthusiasm, "as she expresses it," Miss McEllen has received hundreds of letters and phone calls, as well as being constantly molested by the motion film men.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 23.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Even the motion-film world had to take a picture of Miss McEllen, the stenographer who kissed Gov. Wilson at the Astor Hotel. She blushingly refused, however, to repeat for a newspaper photo session.

It became known that she is the young woman who kissed the Presidential nominee she has interviewed with meiosis.

Suits to Order Tailors Spring $15

At the national Democratic headquarters, where she is employed in the office of Walter E. Vick, she received more than 100 telephone calls in one day. After that interference with her work the operators at the exchange were told to say she was not in.

Miss McEllen says she is exceedingly proud of the incident. She did not kiss Gov. Wilson to court publicity. It was an "outburst of political enthusiasm" as she expressed it. She is not a suffragette.

sume that in the light of Democratic success we shall have a tariff for revenue only.

NO MAN NEED BE IDLE.

"We are today enjoying a larger degree of prosperity, a greater volume of employment and higher individual and collective wages than ever before in our history. No man can be idle who can or will work."

The columns in this paper and columns are printing tenfold more help wanted than situation wanted advertisements. Our farmers have harvested the most valuable crop ever known to their railroad lines and taxes to their pocket to handle it.

Our merchants' wage is never so busy, and our banks are bursting with surplus funds. We are buying more abroad than ever before and we are selling more, much more, but ensuring a favorable balance of trade to meet our foreign obligations. Every year under the present tariff law we have had a substantial treasury surplus. We are as progressive, prosperous and happy as an ambitious people can be who are ever seeking to improve conditions and to increase a constantly growing income. The issue, then, is whether we shall go forward upon the high road to 1816, 1846, 1857, and in 1894, under low tariff, we shall go backward.

A PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE.

"We have been the most progressive people of all history and this has come under Republican legislation and administration. No individual or band of individuals can appropriate the word 'progressive.' Progress is not progress; it is not economic; it is not real progress, and the attainments of the Republican party have brought us a national progress which today is the envy and admiration of the civilized world.

"Shall we again destroy confidence? Shall we open our ports and present our splendid home markets to Europe, China and Japan? Shall we take away opportunities of industrial opportunity, driving them to idleness and depleting our capital and savings?

EXPERIENCE, NOT EXPERIMENT

"To re-select President Taft would be to follow experience and not experiment. The government would continue to be safe in his hands. The nation's affairs would be efficiently and economically managed. Both capital and labor would be unafraid and safeguarded against an inequitable foreign tariff and unjust conditions at home. Conditions of labor are present which are far more nearly ideal than now. Their continuance can be assured only by the continuance of the Republican administration of President Taft."

BALLOT PASTERS ILLEGAL.

Secretary of State Has No Printed List of Taft Electors to Furnish Numerous Inquiries.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 23.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Every mail brings to Secretary of State Jordan requests for a list of Taft electors in this State who were ruled off the ballot and asking for instructions how to vote for him. Most of these enquirers seem to be under the impression that they can obtain a printed list and put it on the ballot. The Secretary of State has informed such that it is illegal to put pasters on the ballot. If Taft Republicans insist upon voting the Taft ticket they must write in the names on the ballot.

Others have asked whether a cross should be put after such written names. The reply is that it may be put there, but is not necessary. Cross or no cross, the voter is legal.

Mr. Taft has printed lists of

Taft electors to furnish voters

at the particular time," said Gov.

Marshall. "I not to ask votes for myself. I am merely to tell the Democratic kites and if you people can send up the kite without the tail you have my permission."

"But I do want to urge as strongly as I know how the election of Dr. Harry Lane, the Democratic nominee in the United States Senate in this State, I am sure, will be won by the Democratic Congressmen, for without them Woodrow Wilson will be powerless to effect the reforms called for in the Democratic platform."

"I would rather see Woodrow Wilson defeated than to see him enter the White House bound hand and foot by a Republican Senate and a Republican House of Representatives."

Gov. Marshall departed from Medford tonight for Albany, where he is scheduled to speak at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. From Albany he will go to Salem for the afternoon meeting, thence to Portland to speak at night.

WEST JOINS MARSHALL.

Gov. Marshall was met on board his train at Ashland by Gov. Oswald West of Oregon and a delegation of Democrats prominent in the State.

This party will accompany Gov. Marshall to Sacramento for the strenuous two-day campaign in California. Gov. Marshall was fresh and energetic, and said he was eager to plunge into the campaign in Oregon.

FAVORS PURE FOOD LAW.

Gov. Wilson Advocates Enforcement and Extension in Letter to Consumers' League Chairman.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Alice Lakey, chairman of the National Consumers' League, made public to-night a reply from Gov. Wilson received in answer to her letter to Presidential candidates as to their attitude in pure food legislation.

Gov. Wilson replied that he is "absolutely in favor of the enforcement of the pure food law and its extension wherever necessary in order to effectively prevent the adulteration of food in the interest of consumers."

Hollywood Man's Fiancée Is Law Writer and Member of the Oregon Bar.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALEM, Oct. 23.—Exclusive Dispatch. Jimmie McEllen, King of several years past, secretary to the Supreme Court of Oregon, will be married tomorrow to Frank Webster Hance, a hardware merchant of Hollywood, Cal.

Miss McEllen, in addition to her duties as secretary of the Supreme Court, has compiled a digest of the opinions of that court which has become a standard reference book of the bar of the Pacific Coast. Under her direction the Supreme Court united in presenting her with a certificate of admission to the Oregon bar.

The wedding will take place at the home of Miss King's parents, Judge W. R. King, in Portland, and the couple will at once leave for Hollywood, their future home.

MAUD MAJONE UNDER RAIL DISTURBED WILSON MEETING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Miss Maude Majone, the suffragette arrested for disturbing a Democratic meeting at which Gov. Wilson spoke, in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, last Saturday night, was arraigned before Justice Kempner to-day and was held in $500 bail for trial. The ball was furnished.

The Irreconcilable.

LA CROSSE (Wis.), Oct. 23.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] United States Justice Clegg, of La Crosse, held a hearing here yesterday, but he would not vote for Roosevelt, Taft or Wilson. He compared the suppression of competition through the growth of trusts to a huge cancer, the treatment of which requires great skill.

STOMACH BAD? BELCHING GAS AND SOUR FOOD? WANT TO FEEL FINE?

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn gas, your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Children in History Recital.
The management of the Broadway
Theater, No. 823 South Broadway, has issued invitations to a large number of ladies and girls to attend the annual Children's children from Australia, in their State history recital, at 11 o'clock this morning.

Polytechnic Students' League.
The Polytechnic High School Students' League was addressed yesterday by two of its members John Cook and Frederick L. Johnson. The speakers were Harold Spofford, circulation manager of the Student Review, and Talman H. Trask, A. Ray Petty of the Y.M.C.A., also spoke.

Prof. Hale to Knickerbockers.
Prof. George E. Hale of the Mt.
Wilson Solar Observatory, will address the members of the Knickerbocker Club at their Hill-street assembly rooms this evening on "The Evolution of the Earth." The talk will be illustrated. A business meeting to pass upon the different sites for the proposed new clubroom will follow. A full attendance is desired.

Committee at the Y.W.C.A.

The first of a series of monthly membership entertainments will be given at the Young Women's Christian Association on next Monday evening.
These are the membership privileges, concessions, which members are entitled to bring a guest, either lady, gentleman or child. That on Monday evening will be given by Ralph Wylie, violinist; Mrs. Katharine Shank, soprano, and Mrs. Ramona Robins Wylie, pianist.

The York Club.

One of the strong organizations of the campaign is the York Club, which was formed Wednesday by women of the city, for the purpose of supporting the candidacy of John M. York for judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county. Mrs. Ray D. Sperry was elected president; Miss Frances M. Villa, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Garrison, treasurer. The next meeting will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock, when further business will be transacted.

Broad Plaza of Y.M.C.A.

On next Tuesday night the men in the employ of the Fairbanks-Morse Company and of the Granite Company will be entertained at the Y.M.C.A. A game of indoor baseball will be played by the teams of the two establishments, and there will be boxing, music, a plunge in the tank, and refreshments. There will be no admission fees. Boys of six of the intermediate city schools were entertained, and next Saturday night all employed boys of the city who can be reached will be the guests. These various entertainments are a part of the program of the movement, which includes the men and boys of the city with the unrivalled facilities of the association.

VAUQUE CLEW TO VAT MYSTERY.

PARBOILED BODY MAY BE THAT OF WIFE SEEKER.

Man Scalded to Death in Hot Water Tank Is Disgusted Beyond Recognition, but Police Believe Victim May Be Identified as Former Hospital Patient.

That the body found in a hot water vat in the yard of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's sub-plant on Macy street yesterday may be that of Henry Tunberg is the belief of the police. While there is no definite identification, the known facts strongly corroborate the theory.

This is believed because the face is disfigured beyond recognition, awaits identification in the Robert L.
Garrett & Company mortuary, No.
1287 South Flower street. It was found early yesterday morning in a large tank which contained scalding hot water and liquid refuse.

Tunberg came here after closing his bath-house at San Jacinto, with the expectation of his wife joining him at Earl Roy Hotel, 21st Street near Wall street. The police believe she did not rejoin her husband Saturday, but she did not return to her husband's home because of lack of nourishment and mental anxiety near Central Park.

At the Receiving room Tunberg said that if he didn't find his wife in three days he would commit suicide. The police believe they have not seen or heard of Tunberg since then.

Yesterday they posted Mrs. Tunberg as missing.

For a week the man fell into the vat and was not known. The upper edge of the receptacle is almost level with the ground. It is thought that the man, unacquainted with the interior of the tank, and while going down may have slipped in the dark, may have tripped over the edge of the vat and been precipitated head first into its almost boiling contents. Death must have been immediate.

The Coroner's office will not hold an inquest until further efforts to identify have been made.

BREVITIES.

Every mother ought to know about the splendid Knicker suits for boys which we're showing at $5. Norfolk and other styles, some with two pair of breeches. Mr. Frank, 437 S.
Spring street.—Adv.

Chinese-American Romance Done in Duplicate.

One Cake for Sister Brides Here and in Nanking.

His Four-year Woring Ends with One-week Engagement.

A remarkable romance, born amid fragrant blossoms under languorous oriental moonlights, attaches to the wedding of Miss Alice Orrma Stuart and Dr. Otto Durham Rasmussen, which will occur in this city Saturday evening. The romance, in its unfolding, carries with it the story of four years' ardent wooing in a foreign land and its happy termination, only after the youthful lover had followed the wireless law from Shanghai to Los Angeles.

The twenty-fourth anniversary of his birth proved a lucky day for the young student, who came here to renew the suit he had so long carried on unsuccessfully in the Flower Kingdom. On that day, which happened to be last Saturday, he received the reward of constancy in the form of a man-of-war-fraught "yes" to a question asked long ago.

The unusual features of the romance, however, do not lie in the happy termination of the long courtship. At the same moment that little Miss Stuart was promising to "do honor and obey" her master, Miss Mildred Stuart, will be making a similar promise to the man of her choice in far-away China. Miss Mildred is to become the bride of Prof. Wilfred Hume of Nanking University. The same wedding cake, baked by the mother of the brides-to-be, is to be used. One-half of the cake is to be served in China, while the other half is waiting the wedding here Saturday evening.

Now does the chain of unusual circumstances stop here. The day that marks the marriage of her two daughters is the wedding anniversary of the mother herself.

Following the marriage here the beautiful bride and groom will go to Yunnan, where they will remain for three weeks to make their home. The young people possess an unusual advantage over the ordinary bridal couple oftentimes in that they are both entirely wedded state by the tenor of their conversation. Inasmuch as both the bride and groom-to-be speak Chinese, it naturally they ought to experience no difficulty in their relations.

Miss Stuart has spent much of her life in China. She is a daughter of the late Rev. George A. Stuart, for many years president of Nanking University, and Harvard and Yale both knew him in missionary work. His daughter was born in Wuhan, China, twenty-two years ago. Dr. Rasmussen is the son of the late G. C. Rasmussen, of Australia, and nephew of the late Rev. James Duran Jennings, former procurator of the Presbyterian church in Australia. He has lived eight years in China and his return expects to establish himself in his profession at Shanghai.

Recently Miss Stuart has been a student at U.S.C., where Rasmussen also matriculated, but has since to his surprise of misfortune has discontinued any plans of further university study for either.

"There are many wonderful and pleasant things in California and I would love to travel over the whole country, but we are going to be very happy back in dear old Shanghai," Miss Stuart said last night. "The boy for he is little more than a boy in fact, who has won wide after discouragements that might well have daunted a braver heart, smiled his assent to her prediction.

BEDTIME CONDITIONS GOOD.

An Austrian Expert on Hygiene Inspects City for Purpose of Comparison with Other Municipalities.

Prof. Arthur Schattenfroh of Vienna University, who represented Austria at the recent International Congress of Hygiene in Washington, inspected this city yesterday in conjunction with officials of the health department and pronounced it better than most of the cities he visited during his stay in the United States.

He was especially interested in the aqueduct, the County Hospital and the city market, as well as the various undertakings coming within the scope of the health department.

Prof. Schattenfroh is making a tour of the cities of considerable size and conditions as they relate to San Francisco. He left for San Francisco last night and after a short stay there contemplated going direct to Panama before sailing for his own country.

Preliminary and Trial Date.

EDDIE HEARING TODAY TO BE PUBLIC ONE.

DIFFERING from his former preliminary, in that he will have a public hearing, Guy Eddie, suspended City Prosecutor, will face Judge Wilson today on the charge of contributing to the dependency of Alice Jones, a young colored woman who has not been living with her husband. Inasmuch as there are few witnesses it is expected the case will be concluded this afternoon. Eddie's lawyers profess to have no fears about the outcome of the case.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the matter of setting Eddie's trial on the charge of contributing to the dependency of Alice Jones will be taken up.

The charges of the Juvenile Court officers have been so widely disseminated that the attorneys for State and defense expect it will be difficult to get a jury.

The State has five principal witnesses who can testify, according to Deputy District Attorney MacCarter.

The defense is understood to have out of politics. But above all I would urge preparedness.

Gen. Wood does not belong to the "peace-at-any-price" party, but in spite of the spirit of Mars which animates him he refused to be led into a peace-at-dinner party. He was invited to a surprised tone, as one might say, "Where have I heard that word before?" "Politics?" My son, I don't talk politics even in my sleep, but I would be glad to have you give me a prognosis of the coming election."

The general thought it unwise to discuss the Mexican situation in view of the acute conditions at present. "But," he added, "you may say that no troops will be withdrawn from the border." After his visit to Los Angeles and San Diego, Gen. Wood proposed a tour of personal inspection along the frontier.

Unlike Secretary of the Interior Fisher, who preceded him in Los Angeles by a day, Gen. Wood has been here but a few days—only forty-four years ago. He is amazed at the change. "It is the most marvelous growth and development," he said. "The place has changed beyond all recognition, and not for the worse." For the presence of a few familiar faces will be used at both ceremonies. Saturday is the anniversary of the marriage of the mother of the Misses Stuart, and marks the 10th of this week's engagement of Miss Alice and Rasmussen—after four years of courtship.

Gen. Wood is accompanied by Capt. Frank R. McCoy of the general staff, performing the duties of an aide. There is nothing of military display about the general, who is the head of the country's greatest fighting machine has attracted to him the attention of the military world. His frank, well-turned speech, capable of but one interpretation. He wears civilian garb, and, in spite of his important position and great responsibilities, is democratic and approachable.

HIS RECESSION.

The general has been on a tour of inspection through the Northwest, and reached Los Angeles on the belated train yesterday afternoon. At the Arcadia Station he was met by Gen. Adams R. Chaffee, Brig.-Gen. Robert Wankowski, Gen. Frank C. Preston, Maj. T. J. Copp, Capt. H. Z. Osborne, Col. W. E. P. Franklin, Capt. Fred Kiehle, Capt. Easton, George H. Palmer and others. He was hurried into an automobile and to the Chamber of Commerce, where he was greeted by delegation representing other chambers throughout Southern California. Gen. Chaffee welcomed the guest of honor and introduced the twin subject uppermost in the minds of every one—the harbor and the army post.

Maj. Copp, chairman of the Military Committee, spoke briefly and presented Gen. Wood with a copy of the resolutions adopted by the chamber and urging the favorable attention of the War Department to the dual project.

President Osborne welcomed Gen. Wood to the city, calling special attention to the advantages offered by this part of the country in a commercial and strategic way for the most economical and efficient establishment of an army post.

In snappy, one-minute talks, A. A. Zimmerman, representing the Orange County Agricultural Chamber of Commerce; Dr. George Stover of Pasadena, Dr. Thomas Armitage of Sunset Beach, Capt. Lewis of Newport, Ahlborn of Anaheim, Capt. F. W. P. Franklin of San Pedro, Head and Bishop of Long Beach, Capt. of Santa Monica, Denman of Redlands, Medical Director Moss of the Navy, Capt. Dutton and others met with ready behind the Los Angeles chamber and pledged their qualified support of the entire Southland to the army post project. It was an inspiring example of the "get-together spirit" and one which visibly impressed the distinguished guests.

After the meeting there was an informal reception, and Gen. Wood placed himself in the hands of his old friend, Gen. Chaffee, who entered at the head of the California Club.

The dinner was informal and confined to the personal friends of the general. Among those present were Maj. Burton, Maj. Klocke, Capt. Osborne and Gordwell, E. P. Clark and W. B. Mathews. Covers for four were laid.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning Gen. Wood will be captured at the California and taken for an auto-ride out through a few interesting city streets and thence to San Pedro, Wilmington and Point Fermin, where he will carefully inspect the harbor work and the fortification sites with the reference to the work which is expected the government will do.

On the way, if the time permits, he will be shown something of the good roads system which is not the least of the commendable favor of an army post in Southern California. A few possible sites for such a post may be pointed out to him.

At 12:30 o'clock he will be a guest of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon which is to be served at the Angeles Athletic Club, and attended by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the city government and men prominent in military affairs. Gen. Wood will conclude his visit tomorrow, when he leaves for San Diego.

For the defense is understood to have witnesses from Lena, Wis., former home of Mrs. Phelps, Bloomington, Ill., where she married Phelps, and other places. Eddie and some of his Good Government friends will undoubtedly take the stand.

While no one can accurately estimate the length of any court proceeding, court attaches believe that a month is a conservative estimate. Unless the defense lawyers change their tactics, the trial will be a long one.

Counsel for Eddie said they are ready to prove that he is innocent ones who can testify, according to Deputy District Attorney MacCarter.

nesses who can testify, according to

"Plug-Hat Dougine" Back to His Pioneer Haunts.

Looking After "Cotton Crop" on Site of Angelus.

Helped to Build the Harbor Railroad Long Ago.

Col. J. T. Dougine, hydraulic engineer, mining man, railroad builder, veteran of the Mexican War and one of the pioneers of Los Angeles, known in the early days of this city as the "plug-hatted Yankee" because he insisted on wearing a silk tile then and still clings to it, is back in the city which he helped to put on the map and is renewing acquaintance with the few pioneers who survive the ravages of years. He and his wife are registered at the Angelus from Chicago.

Col. Dougine arrived in Los Angeles for the first time in 1844, coming to build a mill at Pueblo. "It was met at San Pedro by I. W. Hellman," said Col. Dougine yesterday. "We drove from there up to the heart of the pueblo to the old Temple residence, where I remained for several days enjoying wonderful hospitality before going up to the little village around which lay prosperous grain farms.

"Right where this hotel stands we tried the first cotton experiments on the Pacific Coast. Don Mateo Kellar had a large vineyard on this site which he sold to us when we moved to the South for some cotton seed and planted it here. It was about the same time I took up the agitation for a railroad from the harbor at Wilmington to Los Angeles. The population of the city at that time was 2311, and of that number 1600 were Indians or Mexicans.

"Under a State law, provision for improvements of this character was made by allowing a 5 per cent tax levy if favorably voted on by the people of the county. In those days there was no Orange County, and a greater portion of what is now Ventura county belonged to Los Angeles. The railroad was strongly opposed by some men, whose heirs or who themselves today own much of their wealth in the foundation laid it in 1866. One of the men whose name stands on a big office building downtown today declared that it would irreparably injure the business of raising horses and cattle off the stage line to have the railroad built."

BUILDING A RAILROAD.

"The election was won, and the taxation brought forth $275,000, showing that there was less than $5,000,000 valuation placed on the lands of an empire, and the railroad was built on the 5 per cent gold bonds that were issued. In those days I was a young fellow, and one who could not then that if I could transplant 1000 Yankee families from the New England States here it would be but a short time before they would populous the entire area and their products would call ships from Boston and Liverpool. How well that prophecy has been carried out everyone knows."

Late Dougine, having heard of the great mines of coal in Alaska, went to San Francisco and became master of the schooner Wild Goose, and in 1872, with a number of miners took over 10,000 acres of coal land discovered on the Island of Unalaska. "We found the Alaska Coal Company and through our endeavor the territorial coal land bill was passed in Congress two years later. Had not this measure been allowed to become obsolete the recent Guggenheim affair would have been avoided, and the country definitely placed the rights of any corporation or individual in the matter of acquiring coal lands," he said.

GREATEST COAST CITY.

Only once since that time has Dougine been back to this city, and that was several years ago. "There has been such a change since then that you can scarcely find words to express it," he said. "I am glad to say, "Another decade will set this the greatest city on the Coast. From Los Angeles to Galveston there is a great expanse of back country which will afford homes for thousands and will mean great increase in production of all things."

Judge Comes Quickly.

It took forty-five minutes in the Juvenile Court's court at the University of Southern California to arraign a minor charge, the court to read the complaint, a jury to be empaneled, the evidence, the court's instructions, etc., to the court's instructions, etc., deliberation and report to the court, and the defendant fined $12, twenty-five days in the City Jail.

"In my case, the jury record for my part," said Judge William Nehrkamp, "was a record to the plainclothesman who charged him with having permitted minors to frequent his poolroom, No. 1889 San Pedro street,

On San Pedro Street.

INDICATIONS OF QUICK TRAFFIC-RELIEF WORK.

A SUBJECT of general discussion at the City Hall yesterday was the City Council's action on Tuesday in deciding upon a city-built railroad on San Pedro street, from Aliso to Main streets, as a means for reducing traffic congestion on Main street.

Councilmen stated that no special meeting will be called to advance the project, but that it is expected that the ordinance providing for the addition of a track for construction work will be ready to do everything within their power to hasten the building of the road.

"I am a boy," Victor is marrying, "she said. "And I never heard of this girl. If he was going to marry anyone I would have thought it would be Miss Frances Sargent, with whom he has been going for 10 years. When she always kept several pictures of Miss Sargent in his room, but he took them to the beach with him, where he moved there recently to work. I didn't mind him marrying whom he chose, but I do feel bad about not having been present at the ceremony. His sister eloped several years ago and he was dreadfully angry because she did not let me know of her intentions. However, he's a man, and one who knows his own mind. My blessing goes with him and his bride, whoever she is."

Stedman and his wife were too happy to mind the disapproval of the day-long acquaintance, or Stedman's coin-matching with Walters, but Walters reluctantly acknowledged the facts.

MATCH COINS.

"Sure it is true. We matched coins to see which should get married. We were tired of 'batching' it and the woman who would make him might be unlike and pleasant," said Walters. "It was agreed that the loser of the match should be married within sixty days. Neither Stedman nor I, however, had any idea of the date when the match would be held. The day after that he would be married within a few hours; but so goes life, and everybody all around is satisfied."

"It was a case of love at first sight between Stedman and his wife, and I suppose they couldn't love each other more if they had courted for years. It was just a case of knowing what we wanted to do, and the next best thing to do is matching coins to see who should take the step, and then finding the girl. Fate got busy immediately and the girl came along sooner than we expected. It is a relief to know she has been ten days as a widow."

One thing about Stedman is good as good as his bond. His wife sure is a beauty. Probably the public will look upon a marriage between persons of such a difference as reprehensible, but if they saw the girl they wouldn't blame Stedman a bit. As for her, she had little say in the matter. Stedman says his coming out of the divorce court is a success.

The Rate of Our Growth

Three tests of any Home Building company's standing and prospects are constantly in the mind of the expert investor—its past, present and future.

You naturally desire to know what it has done, what it is doing and what it is going to do.

By that standard HIBERNIAN HOME BUILDERS is found to occupy a premier position among kindred companies.

Our solid foundation, ample capital and first-class organization are matters of record.

Our activity is displayed in building projects on our recently purchased property.

The Rate of our Growth has not been equaled by any similar company in so short a time.

Our financial resources are keeping pace with our increasing growth.

Expressed in figures, our present rate of growth will give us several thousand shareholders at the close of our first year.

By similar computation, our subscribed capital will have attained the significant amount of nearly ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

Our rate of growth has been attained naturally, and therefore is a strong inducement to non-speculative investors to place their savings in our shares.

This record is a guarantee of the success of the expansive plans we have for the future. It has been made in days of numerous investments and is a strong incentive to conservative savers to join us.

In an incredibly short time we have done what older companies have taken months to accomplish.

The price of our shares remains at present at its initial low figure.

Come in and share in the profit of combined power and capital.

A limited purchase of our shares at 20 cents will start you easily and comfortably.

We expect these shares before long to be paying dividends.

Begin with a reasonable investment. Grow along with us.

You will shortly have a steadily increasing profit on your shares and, in addition, your proportion of the company's profits.

We want to extend to thousands the interesting information contained in "THE VISION." YOUR copy of this booklet is ready. Call for it if you can. Or cut out this coupon and mail it to us.

CHILTON TERRIBLY MAIMED.

Little Boys Juggle Dynamite Caps and One Is Dropped It Destroys Eyesight.

Three little amateur jugglers, accustomed to using pebbles in practice, picked up dynamite caps yesterday with which to improve their skill. Since Wednesday, aged 10, No. 3960, of Main street, dropped one of the caps while trying to keep five in motion at once and is lying in the County Hospital with his eyesight destroyed, both hands mutilated, and probably fatal injuries.

To get the caps, Harold Burnell, aged 7, and Sammie Vienna, 12, ran away from the Oak Hill Park Orphanage, No. 6324 Monterey road, on an excursion to search for something more interesting than sticks and stones. They stopped after hours at a grueling camp on Walnut street, decided a locked box would probably produce something interesting, and broke into it by using rocks with which they were armed.

The first thing they found was the dynamite caps, fifteen of them, snugged among twenty sticks of dynamite. The boys dropped the dynamite caps.

James Wallace juggled while standing on a cement sidewalk, and one cap dropped. Passers-by picked him up and called the County Hospital ambulance.

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: The Hair Specialist who has just returned from the East, says that the old-fashioned new-fashioned French twist is still highest favor as a hair dressing this season. This "one-sided" style to the hair is not like that of ye olden times, as it is accompanied by many additional quirks and twirls, making it becoming to most heads.

Crepe and Pique.
Greatly to be admired are those under garments of silk crepe in delicate pinks and blues, made in simple lines and trimmed solely with an embroidered picot edge through which is run the ribbon drawstring. Chemises and bloomers combinations are the principal garments seen among these new importations for the dainty lady.

Odd Napkins.
"I make it a point," said the good housekeeper, "to watch the sales of odd napkins and to there replenish my stock." "But, do you like odd napkins?" asked the newly-wed girl who was her guest. "I suppose that the good housekeeper means in such sales a single napkin of a kind." "I often find," continued the wife, "written on the back of these napkins names given to the house and you will wonder who sits up nights putting them there. There may not be much in them but I would dislike to offend any one of the absurdly attached to many of the new dwelling."

Odd Baggage.
The only daily woman is certain to give some thought and attention to her attire in the matter of her baggages, and her own room, as she opens the street and at public functions. A showing of beauties in one of the Broadway finishing shops attracted the admiration of a number who carelessness in dress.

Odd Fancy.
There is an odd fancy for having a single pocket upon the semi-dress blouse—a pocket made from something not used elsewhere upon the blouse. I have this put into effect among the new importations in one of the Broadway stores, the pocket upon a white silk crepe being of white silk Irish crochet. There was not another touch of silk crochet anywhere about the blouse.

Do Not Forget.
There is no need to take a peep at the opening of that art department of the Broadway Jewelry houses of which I have you found. Those beautiful articles will look still more beautiful when placed in their own fine department than they looked in the dim light of the basement when they emerged from their packing boxes. I am sure I shall take a good look at them all in their new home on Thursday, Friday or Saturday, when the store will be in garrison in honor of their arrival.

Odd Poster.
Have you noticed that stunning poster, "Journeying Round the World," in the window of a downtown Broadway book store? It is very much worth while and is as comprehensive as any ever seen. It attracts a girl sitting demurely on her steamer trunk on top of the world as she scans the horizon which surrounds her. It is the work of a clever young artist on the Times staff and is certainly a "live one."

For Early Shopping.
An importation of fine eggshell lacquer and tortoiseshell boxes attract the attention of the early Christmas shopper who is looking for novelties. One of the oriental stores has a fine collection of these exquisite articles, any one of which would make a fitting gift.

Plush Sale.
Just at a time when the girl who makes her own hats or wraps is on the lookout for the most fitting materials to fashion these wearables comes a sale of plumes of quality at lowered prices. She will save for herself the cost of a Christmas gift by buying here and now.

Fashion's Prophecy.

Silver and crystal are the keynote of the new trimmings. There is a crystal lace which follows the design of fabric lace. Rhinestones will flash from gown in many ways this winter. The trimmings are of the same garniture, of girdle and of sleeves. Effective as the rhinestones trimming is, it should be used discreetly, as it is very easily overdone.

If you are planning a brown costume, very special care must be given to the exact tint of the color chosen. Some browns are best combined with yellow, others with red, and no other color will bring out the tints and shades of the particular material well. In fact, it is extraordinary how much richer and deeper a red brown will look if a touch of vivid red is introduced.

Alas! the crystal embroidered net and chiffon are used very much for evening dresses, there are other types that will prove rivals; they are made of the wonderful new brocade of removable lace, the lace being the pattern, and the transparent robes of chiffon and mousseline de soie, but whether of chiffon or brocade, the gowns must have an effect of transparency about the shoulders.

STRONG FOR STILE.

New York Expert Declares Women Here Show Good Taste in Matter of Dress.

The strong demand for stylish street and evening suits, dresses and coats, eschewing the freakish designs and adhering to plain modest lines, is the predominant feature of the body of Los Angeles women.

Los Angeles, according to Irving Farian, New York representative of Hamburg's, who is in the city for the purpose of determining the needs of Los Angeles women as regards new fashions.

"In visiting the principal cities of the country, I find there is a community where up-to-date styles are in such great demand as in this city," the clothing expert said last night.

"And at the same time the women do not care for such distasteful show goods taste."

My experience leads me to believe there are more suits, dresses and coats sold in this city, proportionately, than in New York.

The demand for travel is also a surprise to men who do not make annual trips to Southern California, is that a girl which "hits" New York, is taken up here at virtually the same time.

DISCUSSING THE CHARTERS.

Mass-meeting Held at Lomita Last Night—Others Scheduled for Garvanza and Highland Park.

A mass-meeting to discuss the proposed county and city charters to be submitted to the voters this fall, was held at Lomita last night by the Lomita Civic Society, President Sperry Baker and Secretary H. M. Chapman of the Federated Improvement Association spoke.

Two meetings will be held in the city next week for discussions of the charters, one Monday evening at the American Legion Hall, 1215 North Avenue, Garvanza, and the other Tuesday evening by the North Highland Park Improvement Association at the Yorkdale School.

The following resolution is being sent to voters of city and county by the Federated Improvement Association, urging them to vote against both charters:

"Whereas, the time allowed for study and investigation by the people of the proposed county and city charters is very short, the county charter to be voted upon November 5 and the city charter soon after; and whereas,

"Whereas, the people are seeking light on both these important organic laws which will enable them to decide wisely and vote intelligently thereon, therefore, that the governments of both city and county may be improved and

"Whereas, this committee, representing most of the city affiliated improvement associations, copy to all parts of the city and county, has been appointed for the purpose of studying and analyzing both of said proposed charters and reporting their findings back to the Federated Improvement Association, and,

"Whereas, this committee is of the opinion that both of said charters contain many clauses which are vicious and not for the betterment of all the people of Los Angeles city and county, and ought not to be approved at the polls:

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we make known to every voter in both the city and county of Los Angeles to procure a copy of said proposed charters and to study the same so that they may vote intelligently thereon.

"Resolved, further, that it is the deliberate and absolute judgment of this committee that said proposed charters should be voted down, and that the people of Los Angeles and the future welfare of our city and county at heart to vote 'no' thereon.

President Lets Repudiates Report That Red Cross Here Is Enlisting Nurses for the Balkans.

Arthur Letts, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Red Cross has issued an emphatic denial of the report that the organization is recruiting nurses for service in the Balkans, adding that such action could not be taken without authorization from Washington and that my such word has been received.

"Dr. J. Edgar Collyer, secretary of the Los Angeles Chapter, who was supposed to be in charge of general relief here for nurses for foreign service, is recruiting them without official sanction if at all," says Letts. "But it is not likely that he would take any action of this nature without advising the local officers."

"If an order came to the Red Cross from Washington I should think it naturally would be directed to the president of the chapter. No such order ever reached us and the Los Angeles Chapter of the American National Red Cross has been recruiting nurses for service with the Turks or the Balkan allies."

"Dr. S. Edmunds, an adventurous young surgeon, who claims to have served in three campaigns and to have a 'V.C.' last night stated that he called on Dr. Collyer, offered his services to the Balkans and that Washington had telegraphed the Red Cross here to carry its recruiting operations no further."

Dr. Edmunds could not be located, at either his home or his office in the Story building last night.

COMMAND BEST PRICES.

Horticultural Report Places Los Angeles County Orange and Lemon Groves Ahead of Others in State.

Orange and lemon groves in Los Angeles county command better prices than similar property in any other part of the State, according to the report of County Horticultural Commissioner Cook, made yesterday to State Commissioner Cook. This puts the famous Riverside section temporarily in the background.

Wood's office is now employing thirty-four field inspectors, fifty fumigators, ten sprayers and three gangs operating fumigating tanks owned by the county. Two units belonging to fruit exchanges are also actively in the field. The State quarantine regulation protects Los Angeles county citrus fruits from foreign imports.

Wood says, but cautions him to be exercised in examination of fruit from San Francisco, notably Hawaiian pineapples, which are often infected.

A INVENTION.

A young woman in Illinois is advertising distractingly for a husband. If she is not married before the end of this year she will lose an inheritance of $30,000. If she manages it right her husband and divorce need not cost her half that sum. It pays to advertise.

NO PRECEDENT.

A law student working in a local telegraph office found a purse containing $47,000 in money and notes and promptly returned it to the owner for whom it was necessary to advertise. When this young man has completed his course and is admitted to the bar he will know better what to do when he meets a man with $47,000.

D RECAUTION.

The State Department at Washington has received word that Cuba is about to hold a general election. This is a timely warning and should be heeded. The least the United States can do under the circumstances is to recognize the emergency by sending a fine body of marines down to the Antilles for a series of interesting maneuvers.

FOLIATION.

It seems that a lively and interesting brand of politics has broken out in California and in Illinois and perhaps the people who participate therein are not so much to blame. They do not want to see Roosevelt carry these States, and to prevent the disaster and shame of it they are going to vote for Wilson. Thus it happens that South Pasadena is organizing a Wilson-Marshall Club has left the word Democratic out of the name lest it offend a great many Republicans who will vote for Wilson out of revenge against the unscrupulous thieves who have betrayed the Republican party in this State.

CREATING THE DEMAND.

We notice that the W.C.T.U. convention at Portland has come down like a ton of bricks on patent medicines suspected of containing alcohol. The ladies of this society do not like alcohol and, of course, they are not obliged to take what they do not like. Neither do they wish their neighbors to have alcohol, and this, of course, cannot always be prevented. In some communities they have succeeded in barring their neighbors from having their alcohol drift to them across the bar and it is suspected that in these localities persons who care about this brand of refreshment become addicted to patent medicines of a kind. We do not know that the patent medicines are always guilty, but we can readily see how prohibition might create a demand for them.

RARE DRUG.

Some American lady now in Italy who is lucky enough to own a yacht also appears to be so fortunate as to have an exceedingly clever press agent. By cable comes the story that while on a gentle cruise the lady saw a new kind of jelly fish which she captured to find that it was a chunk of ambergris worth about $15,000. Ambergris is an excretion from a whale's wound and is worth more than its weight in gold. Ambergris is not a jewel, at that. Perhaps it ranks as a perfume or a drug. Anyway it is more subtle in its appeal to the crimson tide than any other essence known. Its chief use, however, is as a metaphor for Swinburne or Oscar Wilde. It is a great trick to catch a whale, wound it and set it to work producing ambergris. We would suggest that those who are interested in the production of wealth by this process should row themselves out into deep waters much frequented by whales of a good size and, after sailing some of the water out of the ocean with their oars, surround the hole with creme de menthe or Benedictine. When he comes up for a drink he can be pounced and then followed to his lair, where the ambergris can be gathered. We have often thought that an ambergris garden would be a fine investment.

THE RESTORATION OF GREECE.
The civilized world will rejoice if, as a result of the Turk-Balkan war, Greece, with her ancient boundaries restored and her ancient prestige recovered, shall take a place among the leading nations of Europe. In one of his lectures John L. Stoddard says: "In the historic catalogue of earth's great cities Athens stands alone. The debt which civilization owes her is incalculable. For centuries Athens was the school of Rome, and through Rome's conquests she became the teacher of the world. Were absolutely nothing of her glory left, it would still remain a privilege merely to stand amid the scenes where human intellect reached a height which our material progress has not equalled."

They err who say that Greece is dead. She cannot die. The language of Democracy is still extant. Not only are its accents heard within the shadow of the Pantheon; it is so interwoven with our own that we unconsciously make use of its old words as one walks upon a pavement of majestic, unending whence its pieces came. The Greek religion lives in every statue of the gods, in every classical allusion, in every myth which poets weave into the garland of their song. What could a sculptor do without the gods and heroes of old Greek mythology? Hellenic architecture lives in every reproduction of Doric column or Corinthian capital. The art of the Acropolis remains the standard for all time. The history of Greece still gives to us as models of heroic patriotism Thermopylae and Marathon. Even her ideas live—the thoughts of Phidias in marble; of Plato in philosophy; of Socrates in morale; of Euripides and Sophocles in tragedy. One cannot but recall in this connection the splendid sentences of Macaulay.

"All the triumphs," wrote this wizard of the pen, "of truth and genius over prejudice and power, in every country and in every age, have been the triumphs of Athena. Wherever a few great minds have made a stand against violence and fraud, in the cause of liberty and reason, there has been her spirit in the midst of them; inspiring, encouraging, consoling—by the lonely lamp of Erasmus; by the restless bed of Pascal; in the tribune of Mirabeau; in the cell of Galileo; on the scaffold of Sidney. But who shall estimate her influence on private happiness? Who shall say how many thousands have been made wiser, happier and better by those pursuits in which she has taught mankind to engage; how many the studies which took their rise from her have been wealth in poverty—liberty in bondage—health in sickness—society in solitude. Her power is indeed manifested at the bar; in the senate; in the field of battle; in the schools of philosophy. But these are not her glory. Whenever literature consoles sorrow, or assuages pain—wherever it brings gladness to eyes which fall with wakeness and tears, and ache for the dark house and the long sleep—there is exhibited, in its noblest form, the immortal influence of Athens."

Today every Greek in every land is saying: "Must we but weep o'er days more blest? Must we but blush?—our fathers bled. Earth! render back from out thy breast A remnant of our Spartan dead." Of the three hundred, grant but three To make a new Thermopylae."

And every lover of freedom of whatever nationality echoes the prayer.

FREE TRADE BREEDS TRUSTS.

Again and again the Democrats insist that "the tariff is the mother of trusts," implying that, without the protective tariff of the Republican party, there would not be any trusts. That insistence and implication is not true. Trusts or combinations are a development of modern business and commercial methods, and are therefore not peculiar to this country, even with its protective tariff. All countries have trusts, free trade countries as well as protective-trust countries.

H. W. McGorty, in his "The Trust Movement in British Industries," says:

"The encroachment on the realm of free competition steadily progresses. We have to reckon with the probability to use no stronger term, though one might without exaggeration say certainty, that we are in the early stages of the form industry will take in the future."

The special reason for the formation of amalgamations is always the existence of destructive competition, the result of a surplus of productive capacity."

In a book published as recently as 1909 Dr. Herman Levy of Heidelberg, Germany, who had spent some years in free-trade England in study of the trust question, said:

"It was presumed that, owing to her (England's) free-trade policy, as well as her location on the sea, which would tend to prevent high freight charges, the formation of trusts . . . would be found impossible. . . . But this presumption has been destroyed by the actual development of existing English monopolistic amalgamations."

A published list presented thirty-five British trusts, and there are others not included in the list. In engineering, dyeing, shipbuilding, steel, calico, printing and wool combination has been steadily progressing. The president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce says that combinations have been effected in thirteen industries connected with the textile trade. The total number of concerns absorbed was 296, and the aggregate capital of the consolidation is $185,000,000.

In a speech delivered on August 6 last Philip Snowden, a member of the British Parliament, said:

"Some of their free-trade friends thought that, so long as Britain maintained a free-trade policy, trusts would not gain much ground in this country. It might be true that under free-trade trusts engaged in industries subject to foreign competition could not exercise such complete control over prices as was the case in protected countries, but that argument was weakened by the fact that when British trusts had found themselves hampered by foreign com-

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

If We Have Luxuries We Must Pay for Them—Production Has Not Kept Pace with Consumption.

Discussing the present high cost of living, Congressman Humphrey of Seattle put the case clearly when he said:

"It is true that it costs more to live today than ever before, but we are living better today than ever before. We live in better houses than ever before. We are better clothed than ever before. We have better schools than ever before. We have more of the comforts and luxuries of life than ever before. The luxury of yesterday is the necessity of today. The luxury of today will be the necessity of tomorrow. The average workman of today has more of the luxuries and comforts of life than any kind of earth had fifty years ago."

"It may be that too many of us ride in automobiles and too few of us walk in the furrow."

"It may be that too many in this nation live in the city and too few live in the country."

"It may be that too many are idle and too few are at work. Perhaps these things have something to do with the increased cost of living."

"Today we produce three times as much gold as we did twenty years ago. Perhaps we have something to do with the increased cost of living."

"In twenty years the production of cattle and sheep has increased by 40 per cent."

"In twenty years the production of hogs has decreased 17 per cent."

"There are 10,000,000 less meat-producing cattle on the farms in this country than there were in 1899."

"During the last ten years the area of cultivated land in this country has increased 30 per cent."

"During the last ten years consumption in this country has increased 60 per cent."

"The articles that the farmer produced in the last ten years have increased 12.1 per cent, but the value of farm land has increased 72.2 per cent."

"Last year this nation spent $29,722,857 for diamonds, and the value of all the diamonds combined is not worth a single human life. So far as human happiness is concerned, if all these diamonds for which these millions were expended were sunk in the bottom of the sea it would make no difference. If diamonds were as common as pebbles, no one would wear them."

"I am citing this as an illustration of the extravagance and luxury of our people. I am not condemning it. It is a question which each must settle for himself, but I am citing it as one reason why there is considerable about the high cost of living."

"Last year we spent $22,190,000. Perhaps these things have something to do with the increased cost of living."

"As private expenses have increased, so have the expenses of government. In twenty years the cost of running this nation has increased 122 per cent. These facts demonstrate that there is much truth in the claim that the high cost of living is the cause of high living."

"I have attempted to give some of the original causes for the increased cost of living. It may be stated in a word—production is not keeping pace with consumption. The figures that I have given, especially in relation to the production of food, foreshadow one of the greatest problems of the human race, but we cannot meet this problem, nor explain it, nor solve it by claiming for lower taxes."

"The real remedy is to increase production. Intensified farming is the answer."

UNCLE WALT.

The Post Philosopher.

The scarecrow, all swollen up with pride, was boasting of its worth. "I do more good each day," it sighed, "than any man on earth. I guard the granger's corn and wheat from hungry birds of prey; they come, the whole blamed crop to eat; me, and fly away. I stand out here in rain and sun, all soaked in honest sweat; and though my work is never done, small credit do I get. I wildly wave my wooden arms, and kick my jointless shanks, to chase the buzzards from the farms, and no one gives me thanks. If I should loaf around in town and thus neglect my trust, the flouring mills would all close down, the bakeries would bust. The banks and factories would fail; you'd soon hear Famine's wail, while children cried for bread. Prosperity is holding sway, and peace beyond all words, because, 'tis here day by day, and scare the damned birds. But people don't appreciate the good I do, old chum; they really ought to nominate me for some public snap."

"Then the farmer came and threw the scarecrow on its nose. 'This effigy,' he said, 'will do for kindly, I suppose.' No scarecrow's so important here that when deprived of power the world will be thrown out of gear for more than half an hour."

How Farm Values Grow.

[Leslie's Weekly:] At the point in Louisiana, on land which was formerly considered the poorest in the State, strawberries are grown on 200,000 acres, and marketable strawberries are on as much more, for the western markets, furnishing thousands of carloads of freight to the railroads and bringing back many hundreds of thousands of dollars to the growers. There is scarcely a State in the South which cannot show many illustrations of equal interest. The Louisiana rice region, which a quarter of a century ago could have been bought at 25 cents an acre—and the seller at that price would have thought he was cheating—now sells for $100,000,000, put into villages and towns and rice farms and irrigation plants and all the activities which follow the birth of a new industry of such importance as this.

Twelve years ago the value of cotton was $3 to 1 against the value of rice.

Parker were 4 to 1. The price of cotton is still plural, the price of rice is still singular.

Eight years ago the value of cotton was $100,000,000, and the value of rice was $10,000,000.

Four years ago the value of cotton was $100,000,000, and the value of rice was $10,000,000.

Betting odds now run 4 to 1 in favor of cotton.

"THERE'S THE CONTEST" AND TIGERS WIN IT EASILY.

Beavers Always Hopeful of Getting the Victory but Are Never Near It—Hitt Looks Like Max but Did Not Prevent Him from Skinning the Beavers.

BY AL G. WADDELL

IT WAS the contest boys, and Eddie Maier was the play ball sounded. Nap didn't have a chance to say. "There's the old 'Speed' McDonnell trotted over to the bench, which looked like a dissipated Bartlett post. "How's the finger, Speed?" inquired Maier. McDonnell the injured thumb gently said, "Pills like it look." "Well, it looks like hell!" commented Al as he started for his place behind the rubber. The boys wanted to know if he was going to play and "Speed" told them that he was going to try it. "That's the old boy, fine old boy," said Hogan. Maier smiled and announced that "Speed" was a game fellow.

During the game Tuesday, Klawitter had resented the remarks passed on him by the Vernon batters as he went to the plate after him yesterday. Hogan told the boys that Klawitter was the hardest man on McDonnell's list and that if they could beat him, they would sure take the Maier said, "Ditto."

Capt. Anderson of Co. 4 developed some "first rates" in his outfit and when the scores are turned in it will not be surprising if there are almost as many gold bricks in that company as in the veteran organization.

Too Too Charming.

JACK JOHNSON SUED FOR STEALING DARKY'S LOVE.

Colored Man Accuses Big Burly Black Fighter of Winning His Wife's Affections—Pug's Brother Charles on Witness Stand—License of Champion's Cafe May Be Revoked.

(BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Special Dispatch.—Jack Johnson, pugilist, was today defendant in a suit for $25,000, filed in the Superior Court, in which it is charged that the negro pugilist has alienated the affections of Mrs. Adah Banks Davis, colored. The suit was filed by Willard Davis, her husband. The Davis woman is the former formerly employed in Johnson's Cafe and who is reported to have shot him.

Only the principle in the suit was filed by the law firm of Gallagher & Mooney. Attorney Gallagher gave out the following statement:

"This action is brought by Willard Davis, an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, against Johnson, demanding the affections of his wife, Mrs. Adah Banks Davis, and breaking up Davis' home.

The Davises are mulattoes and Mrs. Davis is said to be a strikingly handsome woman, educated and an accomplished actress. She is said to have taken her automobile riding daily giving her a position in his establishment as a singer.

After securing the position of singer, Johnson quit his job and turned home and resumed her maiden name of Adah Banks. She is said to have shot Johnson upon learning of his interest in the "Camero Girl."

Johnson is said to have further discussed the case beyond saying that Davis and his wife had been separated since last August.

BROTHER CHARLEY TESTIFIES. Charles Johnson, brother of "Jack" Johnson, occupied the attention of the Federal grand jury the larger part of the morning session today. He was in the city to testify over again at the opportunity to testify against his brother.

Hot on Oak's Trail.

He is not and refused to be comforted. After the Tigers had knocked Klawitter out in the fifth Wilt took his shiny locks and wailed something about the lucky Blankety Banks smearing everything that his pitchers threw.

The knocking out of Fritz was a severe blow for Mac. Burring, possibly Higginbotham, Klawitter is Mac's best pitcher, and to have him come out for one run after six hits in five games was almost as bad as he could bear. Last week McCredie boasted that he would use Klawitter three times if necessary in order to take the Tigers. Go on Mac and use him three times. He had one come out to use him two days. Klawitter pitched the last three innings for Portland, but the Tigers didn't need any more runs and he got off reasonably easy.

HITT ON THE JOB.

Morgan pinned his faith to Roy Hitt, using a safety pin for the purpose. Roy was easily pleased, but he started to pitch right-handed, and then people can do that. In fact, the general run of persons can't pitch nine double-wingers with their right hand. Hitt pitched either ball for eight innings, allowing only one error, and then parted. He toyed with the Beavers as you or I would toy with a Noah's ark. In the ninth he mellowed and became good natured as all fat men do, prised and complimented the boys to his heart three times and for one run. Three double plays were potent aids in keeping the Beavers away from the plate, but the chances are that he would have won hands down without this assistance.

Klawitter had as much on the ball as any worthy young man ever had in his life, but the Tigers were there with the old-time thump and tore him when he had his meant dividends. This brings us down to a mere matter of detail. Take our advice and shut up. Krueger, ever handy with the sparkling singlet, hit first. But he went down at the time of his hitting. The blow was robbed of its sting. For the Tigers in the fourth Carlisle opened with a hard hit to Klawitter and beat Fritz frantic fling to first. Burrell followed this illiterative achievement with a sacrifice, neatly executed by all concerned, and then a single to Carlisle and Rogers. Bayless then doubled past the situation, scoring Carlisle. Bayless, of course, reached second on the double. He lingered at that point of vintage while Brasher popped to Norton, who then dropped on the base. How hit it left, keeping Chadbourn's noble pog to the plate by a feeble whisker. Litschi judiciously forced Hopp at second. Two runs, three hits. One sacrifice. Three outs.

HOLLOWAY IS WOUNDED.

There were no runs, but a new mishap in the second. Butcher, the fast runner up, ran into an unwilling tangleball from Litschi with a single past third. Norton forced Butcher at second. Baker then popped to Brasher. Norton, convinced in his own mind that there were two out, dashed madly toward second and was doubled at first in an easy and uncomplicated manner. Brasher to McDonald. That is what John Raleigh would denominate a "brain" double play.

The other mishap took place in the second half of the same inning, and consisted of Dan Holloway getting hit on the right ankle with a low pitch. Those who have never been hit on the right ankle with a low pitch with Klawitter pitching don't know anything about real suffering. It took about ten minutes to sooth Dan's soreness, and then he limped about to stand, and once on his feet he refused to surrender the ship.

The third was notable because McDonald made an "impossible" catch, and Klawitter was at the plate. When McDonald proved himself a real first baseman by spearling Hopp's wise throw after a brilliant stop, retiring Chadbourn with Bancroft on third and waiting to score, "Spud" was off the base with a curved hand while poised on the small toe of his left foot, using his right foot as ballast to keep him from

"It is the hand of God," he said as he entered the room. "The Lord has taken this fellow in hand and is directing justice at him." The witness is said to have told the grand jurors much information in the Federal investigation. Johnson was followed by Joseph Levy, secretary of the negro pugilist.

Lucille Cameron, the girl involved, will be recalled later to complete her testimony. The trial will open June 1. She spent the night with her mother at the Grand Pacific Hotel, guarded by Edward Marsteller, Deputy United States Marshal. The girl was reported to be willing to do whatever her mother suggested and to aid the government in every way possible in the contemplated prosecution of Johnson.

The grand jury adjourned at noon after Charles Johnson had completed his testimony.

JOHN MAY LOSE LICENSE.

"Jack" Johnson's saloon license for the Cafe de Champion continued to receive attention in the City Hall today and the possibility of its being revoked is very pressing. The papers. He sent his counsel, Edward E. Day, to the City Collector's office to inquire about his status. He was told nothing had been done up to the present time.

A discovery was made today that may cause Johnson considerable difficulty in retaining his license after November 1. Johnson's license, like all others, expires on that day, and it will be necessary for him to secure a renewal.

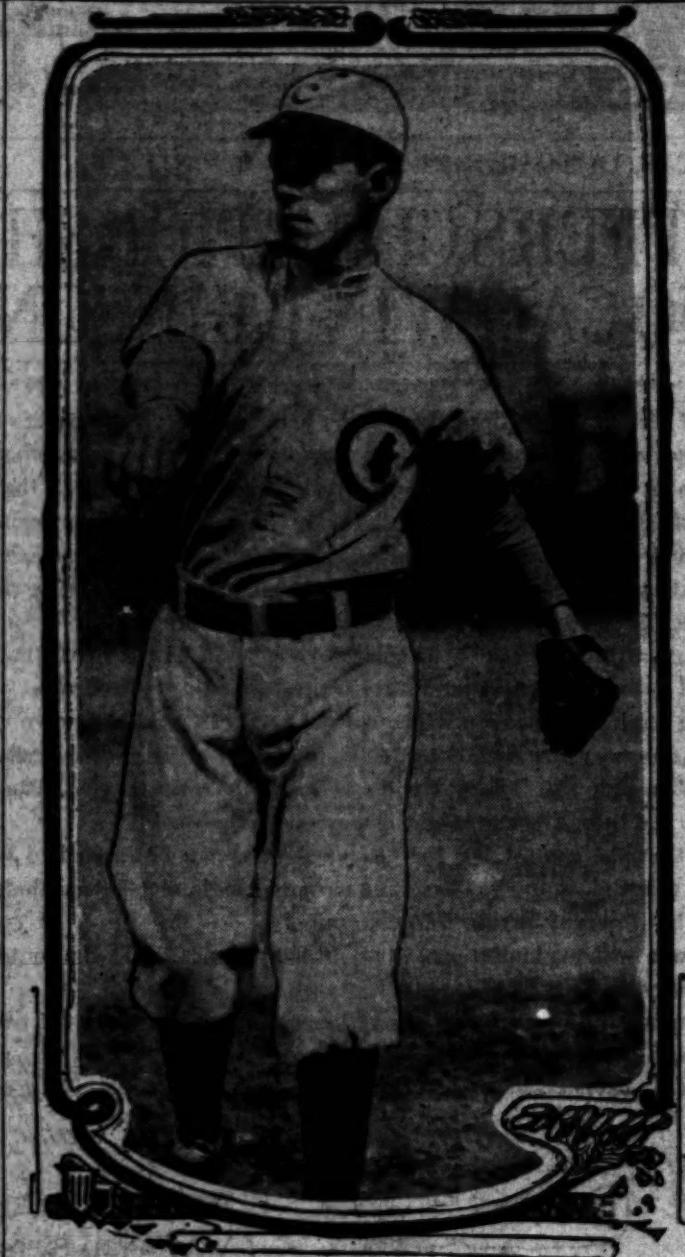

"Without any suggestion from any outside source I have taken the responsibility of paying a check besides that paid to Col. Edward Cohen, who has charge of the issuance of licenses. I think in all probability there will be an investigation before the license can be renewed, for that is the purpose of the check."

The Davises are mulattoes and Mrs. Davis is said to be a strikingly handsome woman, educated and an accomplished actress. She is said to have taken her automobile riding daily giving her a position in his establishment as a singer.

After securing the position of singer, Johnson quit his job and turned home and resumed her maiden name of Adah Banks. She is said to have shot Johnson upon learning of his interest in the "Camero Girl."

Johnson is said to have further discussed the case beyond saying that Davis and his wife had been separated since last August.

Johnny Evers, New Leader.

Famous second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, who is slated by Murphy to succeed the peerless Chance as manager.

Good Selection.

EVERS ANNOUNCED AS NEW MANAGER OF CUBS.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—John Evers, second baseman of the Chicago National League team, will be named manager of the team next season, according to Frank Murphy. The announcement was made by a friend of the player today with a positiveness that carried conviction.

Evers himself declined to be quoted on the subject and C. W. Murphy, president of the club, maintained an attitude of non-discussion.

When Murphy announced that Evers would not manage the team next year he said he had selected Evers' name and described the new manager as "the greatest major speed, enthusiastic and a brainy player."

Since then he has intimated that the new manager would be one who managed well.

The announcement last night that Murphy had given permission to Joe Tinker to negotiate with the Cincinnati management regarding the headship of that team eliminated the shortstop from the list of those who had been considered. Murphy had named as Chance's successor.

It was authoritatively announced that Evers would sign his contract as manager tomorrow. The ceremony had been planned for today, but members of the team are on a "bumming" trip, so the manager to allow Evers to keep his engagement as a player. What terms the contract will carry cannot be learned.

Evers' home is in Troy, N. Y. He played for the National League team in 1902, and, after a brief career as utility player, was made regular second baseman.

Chance, whom he is to succeed as manager, has been playing here since A. C. Anson, became first baseman on the latter's retirement, and manager of the team in 1904, when the late George Lewis gave up the post because of ill health.

When Murphy announced that Evers would be the next manager of the club, he replied:

"I have no doubt it is true. Evers is a good man for the position, too."

"Who are they boozing?" questioned Klawitter. "They're after me," declared Eddie. "Who's the racket than I have heard all summer," declared Hopp. Carlisle was not noticed as he came to the plate, after crossing for the first score. All hands were silent on getting them out. Then did the big Maier air Walter reached first.

HAPPY GOOD ADVICE. Now boys, we got the double, that two runs off the reel this evening. Play hard, get Klawitter, pretty wild you know, get him like you got Koestner yesterday, go after him. Walter, check out Hiltz at the plate, he can't hit him. There's your old starter," yelled Eddie Maier at Walter, reached first.

MCCREDIE THINKS VERNON WILL WIN.

McCredie's statement after the game:

Vernon is going to win that pennant. You can say that for me. There is no fight in Oakland. That club blew two weeks ago and I expect to see Los Angeles beat them to death. I want to beat Vernon and want to beat them bad, but baseball luck is against us and take it from me, Vernon is playing to win better ball than any other club in the league today. The boys have hit a spurt.

McRedie started something in his action by announcing, "Los Angeles, O. K., Oakland, O. K." Of course, it was a bit of fun to do up on the hard times.

Klawitter came in and told the chief such bum luck gave him a hemorrhage. The chief told him to make all and blow to the clubhouse. That is what he did, and still the Portland boys dreamed of making a dozen runs off Hiltz.

HITZ GOOD ONCE.

"He was a bear a few years ago," said Mac. "Had wonderful speed, lots of stuff on the ball and was good. He went to Cincinnati and all he did there was to develop that Max Dill projection he carries around under his coat."

When five runs went up on the board for Los Angeles, Mac said he was glad to see it. "I like old Cap Dillon. He has done a lot for baseball but will never get any credit for it. You can't get any credit for what you do in baseball, but you have to do it the same, or you get out, see?"

CUNNY LOOKS GOOD.

When Little Cunningham went in Howley and McCredie told him to fix his belt properly. They said he had the college-boy idea and all he needed to get away with the pretty girls in the grand stand was to stick his cap in his back pocket. Cunny went out and took a pretty fly against the fence. "That kid is good," said Mac. "He is better than I am. I think tramps in the big leagues today, and with the experience which comes to a ball player he will make good and good big."

Cunny kept up the good work when he went to bat and slammed out a powerful drive. The boy on the Vernon bench took notice. He said he was the real goods, and the boys told McCredie he was the best man on his pay list, even if he was only 17 and from San Francisco.

McCredie was on the coaching line and raged the fans in right-field bleachers for a few minutes.

Hap discussed the prospects of a post-season series with his boys and everyone nodded up to the blasters calling to him and asking what he was going to do with the pennant.

As the Denver club has disbanded, the possibility of getting them out, how to play around them, etc., but Hap told the boys they could play a club composed of major leaguers such as Snodgrass, Shafrazer, Myers, Hooper, Lewis and a string of players like that. "How about the money?" asked Burrell. "Fifty or fifty, or we don't play," said Hap as he started for the clubhouse with his grip and another game.

—The "Million Club," as its name would signify, is to be composed of persons who will purchase club button at $5 each or become members at $1 a year. However, the details as to admission fees have not been fully worked out, according to the promoters.

The plan is to use part of the money collected from enthusiastic citizens in advertising Los Angeles to the world, a task that Frank Wiggin and the Chamber of Commerce have been successfully doing for many years.

Another idea is to induce more persons to join some organization that member of local organizations he probably been doing since they moved in business.

HIS IDEA.

Murphy says he has money invested here and would like to see more come to Los Angeles. He makes no pretensions for any originality for the idea, stating that it was tried in San Francisco and in several eastern cities.

He declared yesterday that he did not fear the perhaps natural opposition of existing commercial bodies, "but as a matter of course" had approached the secretaries of his plans. Murphy said he had approached W. H. Garland, the man who may serve as president, and in view of the right M. C. Neuner, who does considerable printing for him.

Garland stated yesterday that he has no fear to meet the needs of any new enterprise, but believed it would be a worthy one if backed by the kind of men. He said he was in every improvement that would help the city, but admitted he had not been consulted in the scheme suggested by Murphy.

"I certainly have no time to act as president of any such organization," said Neuner. "I am for anything that will help Los Angeles and in this, particularly, Mr. Murphy seems a desirable one if the right men will hold off."

NOT NEEDED.

Secretary Zehandlau of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association gave it as his opinion that there is no need for any organization to be formed to boost the population. Mr. Zehandlau took the stand that all the local civic and commercial bodies have been doing the work for many years and that it was necessary to go before the public with another plan which would not be likely to bring less money without a definite knowledge where the funds would go.

The members of our association have no doubt put on some fine & attractive stationery, etc., for the secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. "Our members comprise some of the leading business and manufacturing houses in this city, and they have always done their share in helping the cause of the community."

"I do not think that every new house for advertising Los Angeles should be eliminated. Informed men feel that these are put forth for gain or publicity and are not a positive to do anywhere near the amount of good the established organizations do."

Secretary Wiggin said he always considered that the Chamber of Commerce was a pretty good "population promoter" for his part he was opposed to the bringing up of too many new bodies which might distract public attention from the proper channel of advertising the glories of Los Angeles.

WAR OF IT.

"I can see any enterprise that will help Southern California," said Secretary Wiggin, "but many years of experience has made me wary about anything that somebody or other gets into. There is all right and wrong. Some of the bodies are connected with the underworld, but not so, however, how selling for $2 each each to maintain a club room tends to work for increased population in going to help the city." The Chamber of Commerce has ever been active in getting men here, in sending out tons of literature, in giving stereopticons, in holding exhibits, etc. All these were held among homeowners.

"We have to work hard to get our present enterprises and I do not believe it is helpful to the community to produce too many concerns, even though they may be perfectly legitimate and worthy. I think our Chamber, together with the well-established organizations, are the ones that will do the most good."

"The man who is most prominent in the community and intimated that one of the most prominent men in the city was Pat Crowley."

"I do not believe that he might give $1000 for the benefit of the city. He said he had the room here for such organizations and expects to have the best of officers and directors for the next few weeks."

VERY WARY OF THIS SCHEME.

"Million Club in 1920" Not General Favorite.

Chamber of Commerce and M. and M. Oppose It.

Local Civic Bodies Amply Cover Field.

A private organization purporting to be already incorporated as the "Million Club in 1920," or some similar name, has been launched by J. S. Murphy, a dealer in stocks and bonds and at one time connected with the advertising department of a local newspaper. Though the project is strongly opposed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association as an unnecessary burden upon the community, Murphy seems manguine that he can succeed without the endorsement of those "old and similarly prominent local leaders."

The "Million Club," as its name would signify, is to be composed of persons who will purchase club button at $5 each or become members at $1 a year. However, the details as to admission fees have not been fully worked out, according to the promoters.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Normal Site—What for? LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—To the Editor of The Times: Now the smoke of battle has cleared away, and the Normal School site purchase has been ratified, it may not be out of place to ask: what for?

We have been told the purpose is to erect an art gallery and picture gallery on this site. So it seems that elderly citizens (men and women) whose chief remaining solace is in books must toll up a steep hill every time they visit the library. But this is not the point to which my letter is especially directed.

Some of us have a suspicion (and we have a right to raise the question) that behind all this book of the Normal site purchase is an older design to put the new City Hall on the Normal School site instead of at Temple Block, and thus frustrate the civic-center plan—another knock for the "old part of town" north of First and east of Main.

SLATED FOR DEPORTATION.

Large Collection of Undesirables from China and India Held Pending Word from Washington.

A baker's dozen of Chinese and Hindoo, all alleged to be illegally in the country, were before Immigration Inspector Connell yesterday on proceedings looking toward deportation. In all cases the evidence taken will be transmitted to the Department of Commerce and Labor and the men held pending official action.

There is little doubt that they will all be returned to their native countries.

The Chinese girls, Miao and Sora, Hinsoon from Calcutta, drew attention to a serious phase of the immigration problem which bids fair to become more serious with the opening of the canal. Both men are held on the interdiction of disease, one of them being afflicted with hookworm and the other with trachoma—aliments said to be very prevalent among the hordes of that race not in Mexico and awaiting a favorable opportunity to slip across the line into this country.

Long Jail Sentence.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Harbor improvements, including a new wharf for Water street at Wilmington, more channel-dredging there and the dredging of Area C, were discussed by the Board of Public Works and the Harbor Commission yesterday, and the Works Board decided to reject all bids for the construction of Municipal Dock No. 1 and reservoirs for bids.

The project of opening Hill street from Washington to Jefferson streets was started yesterday by the filing of a petition for such improvement. The proposed street would cut through fourteen blocks.

San Fernando property owners filed a letter to the City Council yesterday, stating their desire to form a city of the Los Angeles valley bonds for a water-distributing system and then annexing to Los Angeles, in order to secure permanent water rights from the Los Angeles aqueduct.

The Associated Charities recommended yesterday that an ordinance be adopted preventing the railroads from bringing to Los Angeles objects of charity or paupers.

At the City Hall.HARBOR PLANS RECOMMENDED.*ANOTHER WILMINGTON WHARF TO BE CONSTRUCTED.

Long Dockage Proposed for Water Street, With Extra Dredging in Adjoining Area, and Plans Approved for Deepening Water at Huntington Concession.

Numerous harbor improvement subjects received the attention of the Harbor Commission and the Board of Public Works yesterday, among them being plans for a wharf at Water street at Wilmington, the dredging of the channel in front of this proposed wharf, and the dredging of area C at the Huntington concession, on the outer harbor.

The Board of Public Works approved the plans and specifications for dredging of the east channel at the Huntington concession, and the removal of the northerly 1000 feet of the government levee and placing of the rock on the bulkhead line. A resolution was adopted authorizing bids for this work, and these bids will be opened on October 28. This is the work covered by the option given by the Standard-American Dredging Company, which option will expire on November 1, so speedy action in awarding a contract is necessary.

Upon recommendation of the City Engineer, the Board of Public Works rejected all of the eight bids for the construction of the concrete wharf at municipal dock No. 1, on the Huntington concession, as these bids were deemed excessive.

The bids ranged from $449,093.90 to $452,268, the low bidder being the Beasley-Tibbits Construction Company.

The board believes that it will be able to save from $50,000 to $60,000 in re-advertising this work, and after some slight modifications in the specifications, a new bid will be taken, allowing more time for the completion of the work, bids will be asked for again.

The Harbor Commission recommended that a wharf be constructed of timber and of wood construction, 170 feet long and thirty feet wide, be erected at the Water-street frontage of the inner harbor, at Wilmington, and that extra dredging be done in front of this wharf, the dredging to be used in filling the area lying between Water street and Front street, and that this work be done on force account.

The original estimate on the Morris Island channel wharf was $200 per linear foot, and it is believed the Water-street wharf can be built for a less sum.

Wilmington people have represented to the Harbor Commission that several vessels are expected to regularly dock at this wharf as soon as it can be constructed. The commission's recommendation will be sent to the Board of Public Works today.

The Police Commission also instructed its secretary to confer with Salt Lake Railroad officials in regard to the straightening and widening of the channel of the inner harbor, which would require the moving of the wharf at the Santa Fe on the East San Pedro side, so that an agreement might be reached before the hearing before Col. McKinstry, United States engineer at the harbor, which is set for 10 o'clock on October 28.

The board also recommended that the City Council adopt an ordinance requiring the filing of monthly reports with the commission from the various wharf companies operating at the Los Angeles harbor, and a draft of the proposed ordinance prepared by the secretary was referred to Special Counsel Hewitt for his approval.

Big Project Started.

A petition with the City Council was filed with the City Clerk yesterday by numerous property owners in the district affected, asking for the opening of Main street from Washington to Jefferson street.

This is one of the largest street-opening projects advanced for many months, and would cut through fourteen blocks that are well built up, costing thousands of dollars, but the petitioners state that they are willing to stand the expense and are anxious to have the work started.

Would Join the City.

A communication to the City Council from the San Fernando Valley was filed yesterday, setting forth that at a meeting held in the valley resolutions were adopted demanding that the residents there be willing to form themselves into a city of the sixth class, vote sufficient bonds to construct a distributing system for surplus aqueduct water, and place such bonds so that they may be held upon the properties included within the corporation, and that thereafter they would take action to annex themselves to Los Angeles, so that they may be relieved of permanent water right from the aqueduct. They state that they are also willing to pay a reasonable rate, to be prescribed by the city, for the use of the water on San Fernando Valley lands.

Spur Tracks Recommended.

The Board of Public Utilities recommended yesterday the granting of spur tracks as follows: The California Pine Box Company, Alameda street, between Third and Sixth streets; the Oil Well Supply Company, on Augusta street; the Simon

Our Men's "Double Life" Suits at $15

Are creating a stir among the well dressed men of Los Angeles, not only because of the extra pair of trousers that makes them wear about twice as long, but also for their style correctness, the high quality of their materials and their perfect tailoring. It is impossible to make better suits at anything like the price of these. We not only guarantee but insist upon your absolute satisfaction or give you a new suit free. Look at them.

Another Striking Example of Our Unequalled Buying Power Is Forcefully Demonstrated in These Men's $20 Overcoats With Caps $14.50 to MatchChoice of All the New Smooth and Shaggy Woolens and New Colorings*Hamburger's

LARGEST DEPARTMENT STORE WEST OF CHICAGO.
Broadway, Eighth and Hill Streets.

Hamburger Clothing Is Made Up to a Standard

Not down to a given price! We do not ask for how little a man or overcoat can be made, but demand that it shall measure up to our own exacting quality standard, and when that is done the price is given consideration. That's why Hamburger clothing pleases the man who is fastidious in matters of dress. Clothing made to sell at a certain price will invariably look like that price—or less; clothing built to a standard will show it in every line.

The coats alone could not be duplicated under $20! The opportunity to get a high grade overcoat, in the newest, snappiest of the Fall and Winter styles with cap to match for the one price is something entirely unprecedented. It is just another instance of Hamburger leadership—Hamburger supremacy in meeting the needs of the well-dressed man.

These coats are half lined, all hand-tailored, full length, in belted back style; also coats of plaid back materials. Made to give warmth without weight. Have detachable belt and adjustable wind tabs on sleeve. In the popular shades of Oxford, browns, grays, tans, heather mixtures—in short, all the shades called for by the fashions of the moment.

Materials are double and single textures—strong dependable weaves in tweeds, cheviots and meltons that are guaranteed to be rainproof—made so by the Priestley process. Have the convertible collars that mean so much in the way of comfort and convenience and every coat in the lot is fully guaranteed both as to fit and wear. Come in sizes 33 to 46. Caps are in the large English golf style, skeleton lined, tapered seams. Made from same materials as the overcoats.

They come from makers who create and establish American styles for American men. In cut and workmanship they are beyond the skill of any but the most expert designers and tailors. The closest, most critical comparison but serves to emphasize their superiority. There's a wide range of choice, too—no trouble at all to find just the style that is most comfortable and becoming—just the fabric and shade that pleases you best.

We want every man in or near Los Angeles to see these coats. We particularly urge the man who knows clothing values—the man who is not easily satisfied to examine them critically. They'll go as fast as these men get sight of them. They'll more than please in every detail of material and making.

COMMENDATION FROM A JUDGE.PRAISES MANNER IN WHICH WORK HAS BEEN DONE.

Claims for Attorney's Fees in Litigation Growing Out of Receivership of California Development Company Are Taken Under Advisement—Lights.

Recommends New System.
The Associated Charities set to the City Council yesterday a bill to make an ordinance in force in Houston, Texas, providing that objects of charity and paupers shall not be shipped to that city, and that transportation lines shall not be held responsible for any cases brought there and will be compelled to return the passengers to their starting point. The Associated Charities recommends that a similar ordinance be passed here.

Courts Half-Brethren.

The Police Commission transferred the wholesale liquor permit of the Redwood Mansbach yesterday from No. 525 South Spring street to No. 522 on the same street; transferred the liquor license of the Mutual Water Company aggregating $124,000. The aggregate fees demanded approximate $200,000.

Col. W. H. Holabird, the receiver, stated that at a reasonable per cent, on the investment, the assets of the company represent $2,500,000. The canal construction under way will increase the earnings of the company eventually $150,000 a year. This will give the company an estimated profit of $50,000. The increased valuation, Col. Holabird said, will not be the result of an increased charge for water, which remains at 50 cents an acre-foot.

Much that was interesting was gone into by Col. Holabird touching the construction work under way. It has been found that ten years ago the company had a large amount of debris in the canal, which remained until the completion of the work, and for nine years it is estimated no repairs will be necessary, thus giving full return for the investment.

Cash in the treasury now amounts to $161,000, with secured claims outstanding against the Mutual Water Company aggregating $124,000. The aggregate fees demanded approximate $200,000.

Judge Bordwell stated that when the work is completed he will take pleasure in notifying the court when it has been done. He said the receiver will be well compensated for his valuable services and that it must be borne in mind that the men interested are working for results and not means. They are trying to move the property to the creditors. The court said he favors this course.

REMEDY LIES IN APPEAL.
J. W. Sheeley and four other property owners named Morris, who joined in a suit against the city in an attack on the validity of the assessment for the Improvement of Twentieth street, asking to have it declared invalid and enjoining the City Treasurer from issuing assessment bonds, lost the case in Judge Clark's court. The injunction was dismissed and the assessment declared valid.

IN THE TOOLS.WITNESS FINED FOR CONTEMPT.

An oath uttered by John A. Evans, a witness in the $50,000 alienation suit of Josephine Scheer against her wealthy mother-in-law, Ada Bram, on trial in Judge Craig's court yesterday, cost Evans $5 for contempt of court.

Evans was asked him to swear on his honor that he was an inmate of Mrs. Bram's palatial home. Evans netted, used the oath in his reply.

Judge Craig stiffened. He advised him to appear again in the court when he appeared to be an oath. Evans had uttered he held him in contempt and the case did not proceed until Evans paid Clerk Kinney the money.

Evans was a witness for Mrs. Bram.

which goods were passed. The value was revealed when the suit case was accidentally dropped in a store.

Probation Officer J. R. Reves, who was in charge of the boy, admitted his report on the property owned by the Southern California Edison Company and the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. His defense is that documents were not public records because they had not been filed at that time and were simply his own memoranda.

LEGACY PARTS THEM.

WIFE FLEES WITH RICHES.

A search for his wife that extended over eight years ended yesterday, when Benjamin Kribis, a widow, returned to Minnie C. L. Kribis. Kribis was married thirty years ago, and their domestic relations, according to his testimony, yesterday, were not altogether happy.

Evans gave numerous instances of his domineering wife, and other things recalled a time when Mrs. Scheer was sweeping. Harry asked her to stop, and Josephine laughed and continued. Harry was eating his meal, which was a cold dish, and to distract his ravenous appetite he jumped, seized the broom and broke it across his knee. Then he complained to his mother, who was ill in another room.

LOSES HIS WIFE.

FIGHT PROMOTER DIVORCED.

Larry Sullivan, fight promoter, Goldfield capitalist, and mining man, was divorced from his wife yesterday on the ground that he is habitually unfaithful, and had lied to her during the past three years. Larry did not appear.

Mrs. Sullivan, an attractive woman, told her story with evident regret. Her daughter, Alice M. Ash, since Larry left her, testifies, she has seen him once, and that was when he called at her home in Hollywood to see their four children.

She was absent eleven months. He sent her some money, but not enough to live on, she declared. She was provided for by her parents. According to her statement, Larry has not worked for five years.

SEARCHES FOR HER.

GIRLS FREE FROM COURTOOM.

More than a score of girls from the Los Angeles High School, on a periodical visit to the courts, hustled into the divorce court yesterday chattering like a bevy of birds. They scuttled in, the frightened chickens.

Judge Dunn sternly informed them that the divorce court was place for children.

The girls took a birdseye view of the famous court before they scampered through the various doors, and in the corridor the giggles they had been given full vent.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

STOCK SUIT. Service was made on A. M. Salver, president of the Salver-Baumeister Company, by Attorney Lincoln yesterday in a suit filed against Salver by Estelle T. Whitington, March 7 last. The delay was caused by Salver's numerous trips out of the city.

The action is to recover 10 per cent, dividends on stock bought by Salver.

SAVES MONEY. The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation saved $2900 by condemnation proceedings for a fifty-foot lot on Howard street, owned by Pierre Vilelli and others. The police asked $2500. A trial judge, Daniel, awarded $2450. The corporation has bought three additional lots on Howard street at a cost of $11,000, and will put on the property gas generators, in plan to enlarge the plant.

SAFEGUARDING YOUTHS.

Eustace Ramirez, aged 14, who left a ranch and obtained employment with a Greek at a bootblack stand on West Third street, found himself in the custody of the Juvenile Court yesterday. The stand, it appears, is in front of a bar, and the court adjourned to hear the probation officer Daniel, who sternly informed him that the divorce court was place for children.

The girls took a birdseye view of the famous court before they scampered through the various doors, and in the corridor the giggles they had been given full vent.
